RESHAPE

Karen De Mauro is Artistic Director of The Acting Center, an International Presentation Coach, and Master Teaching Artist. Her highly interactive programs for schools enhance curricula, highlight individual learning, and increase connection, engagement and community.

Creative Drama Workshops

Students learn basic drama skills like focus, motivation, place, character, problem-solving, and goal-setting. The exercises actively engage students with curriculum topics like exploration, immigration, and cultural awareness. All programs listed address NYS Next Generation Learning Standards and align with the SEL framework

Interactive Storytelling

Storyteller Karen De Mauro tailors a performance with audience participation to suit your theme. These participatory workshops create a responsive connection to the inner meanings of myth and story. Choose from a broad repertoire that includes Native American, Bilingual, Poetry, Classical Mythology, Biographical, and Environmental themes.

Public Speaking

This dynamic workshop introduces students to public speaking basics and increases confidence by building their skills. The exercise-rich group session provides practical experience in a supportive environment. It prepares students to develop their own presentations for National History Day, Science Fairs, Graduations, and more.

Creative Collaborations

The synergy of effective collaboration encourages participants to express themselves fully and celebrate in community. Create your own program or us “Creating and Original Musical”, “Sharing Stories”, “Mindfulness In Motion” and the Performalong with the help of professional directors, performers, citizen scientists, first responders, teachers, artists, friends and neighbors.

Professional performer and coach, Karen De Mauro, directs and performs for The Smithsonian Institution, The United Nations, Acadia National Park, The Nature Conservancy and school districts across the US. As a professional storyteller, she performs at Central Park’s HCA Festival, Irondale’s TPSU, and builds interactive programs for museums like CMOM, The Intrepid, and NYFA. Her award-winning public speaking programs train clients in Healthcare, Finance and IT for live and virtual presentations. She recently performed for "Discover New York" at the Alvin Ailey Theater. As coach to Broadway actors and lifelong Artist-in-Residence she teaches communication skills in creative, dynamic ways.
